

Aonach Mor - take a gondola ride up to the ski centre and enjoy the views. In season you can enjoy a meal in the restaurant.

Ben Nevis - Torlundy House is situated about  $\frac{3}{4}$  mile from the North Face Car Park where many walkers set off for a walk up the "Ben". So leave your car at Torlundy House and set off from our door step.

Neptune's Staircase - a flight of locks on the Caledonian Canal at Banavie, watch the boats pass through these, see the road and rail bridges swing out of the way.

Glen Nevis - drive up the Glen to the car park, walk the well marked track through the ancient Caledonian woodland to a lush Glen with a spectacular waterfall. Glen Nevis has been a popular film location for many blockbuster movies.

Ardnamurchan Peninsula: take a whole day trip to the westerly point on the UK mainland. Fantastic views and dramatic scenery, in the summer you may even spot basking shark and whales in the sea below the lighthouse. The lighthouse is now a museum and it may be possible to climb to the top.

The Commando Memorial - about 7 miles from Torlundy on the Inverness road, sculpted in bronze the three Second World War soldiers, whose story is told in the nearby museum, survey their training area to the West. The views from here are spectacular.

Parallel Roads - head north from Torlundy to Spean Bridge then take the A86 to Roy Bridge. From here you proceed to the Glen Roy Nature Reserve with a view point from which the "Parallel roads" can be seen on opposing sides of the mountain. Legend has it that they were built by the mythical Fingal.

Inverness - capital of the Highlands, a picturesque city on the River Ness, enroute visit Urquhart Castle and the "Nessie" Centre on Loch Ness, well worth a day trip, and return by the south east side of the loch for more views and a visit to the waterfalls at Foyers.

Here are a few places to visit

Loch Arkaig - 15 minutes by car, see the Cia-aig Waterfall. There are several well marked forest walks. Also visit the Clan Cameron Museum in the grounds of Achnacarry Castle, home of the Clan Chief.

Glenfinnan - see the Glenfinnan Monument, a National Trust for Scotland site, with amazing views of Loch Sheil. Also the Glenfinnan viaduct and the West Highland Rail Line museum.

Glen Coe—visit the National Trust for Scotland visitor centre and learn about the geology and history of the area and the troubles that lead to the massacre.

Road to the Isles- take a drive up to Mallaig visiting the peaceful village of Arisaig on the way. You also take in Glenfinnan enroute. As an alternative to driving you can take the Jacobite steam train going over the Glenfinnan viaduct.

Jacobite Steam Train. Take the steam train from Fort William to Mallaig, enjoy the splendour of the West Highland line, and enjoy a light lunch in Mallaig before your return journey. Pre-booking is usually essential in advance. Or you can take the modern train, it travels on the same line so you still see all the sights.
